ONE OF WISCONSIN'S TALENTED LADIES

MRS. CARRIE JACOBS-BOND
WELL KNOWN IN JANESVILLE.

Entertained Audience At Myers Grand
Monday Evening—Born In Bower
City Where She Hopes Some Day to Build a Home—Began Making Songs When Four Years Old.

One of Wisconsin's most talented daughters and one of whom Wisconsin can justly be proud is Mrs. Carrie Jacobs-Bond, the well known composer, song writer and vocalist, now living in Chicago. Many people of the Bower City had the pleasure of listening to Mrs. Bond's sweet voice at Myers Grand Monday evening.

Mrs. Bond was born in Janesville, where she hopes some day, she says,
to build a home to die in. Genius is born, not made, and Mrs. Bond began making songs when she was only four years of age. Her songs are always an inspiration. Scenes, pictures, people, all suggest music to her, but not until five years ago did she consider the publication of her songs. Two years later, after the great sorrow of her life came to her, in the sudden death of her husband, Dr. Frank Bond, she left their home in northern Michigan, and with her only son went to Chicago, where, to her surprise, she found every encouragement and incentive to take up song writing as her life work. Later, six months spent in study in Europe was of inestimable benefit to her and since her return to Chicago she has accomplished a vast amount of work, having written no less than sixty-five songs.
Not only has she composed the music, but the words also, with but two or three exceptions, of all her songs.
Among the prettiest are "Through the Mists, When My Ships Come Home,"
"The Bird Song, Alone, and the Waltz Song, Now 'Tis Spring Time."

As a writer of children's music, Mrs.
Bond has scored a great success and a collection of four songs, just published, and which she sang a part Monday evening, have proved to be especial favorites with the music-loving people of this city. A Little Shoe, a Lullaby, Have You Seen My Kittie, and When My Ships Come Home compose the quartette of childhood's songs that for delicacy and pathos cannot be surpassed.

Of Mrs. Bond The Musical Courier says: "She is an artist by nature; all her work is refined and full of that true sentiment which is occasionally found in a woman of finer fiber. The ideas and thoughts expressed in many of her finer songs are well worked out. Her songs might be termed little ballads;
genuine feeling and musical temperament distinguish them."

An Instrumental Composer.
Mrs. Bond has also composed a number of instrumental pieces of merit, of which Memories of Versailles, The Tzigan Dances, and Chimney Swallows are brilliant and well harmonized compositions.

Not only is Mrs. Bond a most versatile composer, but she also has a fine, clear mezzo voice of sweetness and depth, and as a song recitalist she is fast attaining a prominent place on the concert stage. The Chicago Tribune says of her: "Mrs. Bond's talent as composer, performer or vocalist would secure for her an enviable reputation in the world of music, but her excellence in each branch is phenomenal."

Mrs. Bond is kept busy giving recitals made up entirely of her own compositions, both instrumental and vocal. Recitals and entertainments for children, with children's songs and stories, are a special feature of her work.

She Goes to New York.
In August Mrs. Bond is going to New York in the interest of her new songs, which are to be illustrated by the new artistic moving pictures. All the automatic instruments, the aeolian, the angels automatic pianos and automatic pipe organs have Mrs. Bond's music on their rollers, and her ballads are in studios where songs are well taught.

It is given to many women to excel in one branch of art, but few excel in three and of the few a brilliant example is Mrs. Carrie Jacobs-Bond, of Wisconsin.
Mrs. Bond's last song, not yet published, is as follows:

Where to Build Your Castles.
[Copyrighted—Used by Permission.]

Just build your castles in the air
While you are young and life is fair,
For by-and-by, when youth is gone,
And days and years are not so long
As when you sang your youthful song,
What then seemed right will now seem wrong;
But castles you build in the air
Will last for aye and still be fair.

Of course we like to build on earth
When we are young and life is bright;
But time alone can tell the fate
Of castles builded here to wait.
For him who finds alone, too late
That castles here are desolate,
That only castles in the air
Can live for aye and still be fair.

So, if you want a castle rare
You'll have to build it—in the air,
For that's the only place I know
Where castles always stay "just so."
Where walls don't crack and hearts don't break
And cars will not keep you awake—
For only castles in the air
Can last for aye and still be fair.

Mrs. Bond is now giving recitals in Wisconsin, composed entirely of instrumental music and songs of her own composition in the principal towns of the state. Her "afternoons" are an event in musical and social circles.

ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL BALL

Seventy-Five Couple of Young People
Have Good Time at Armory

The final event in the history of the class of '99 of the Janesville High school occurred last evening at the Armory.
The occasion for the gathering was the annual commencement party. Notwithstanding the heat about seventy-five couples were present and participated in two-steps, waltzes and redowas to the entrancing music of Smith's orchestra of eight pieces. A two step and march composed by Al Kneff, a member of the orchestra, entitled "Battleship Wisconsin," was played. It is a beautiful piece and shows great talent on the part of the composer.

There were just enough present to enjoy themselves and that a good time was had is the verdict of one and all.

During the evening George Hatch sang "Because" and so well was it received, an encore was demanded to which he responded. The decorations, which were in charge of the Bachelor Maids, were very pretty. Several from out of town were present.

The following committees contributed to make the affair a great social success:

Arrangements—Henry Carpenter, Angelo Shattuck, Neil McVicar.
Reception—Thomas Hogan, Neil Mc-Vicar, Percy Kearney.
Floor—Thomas Hogan, Percy Kearney, Clarence Smith, Elmer Clark.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion by Dieting a Dangerous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity usually taken, in other words the starvation plan is supposed by many to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure has been proven time and again, but still the moment dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ, every nerve and every fibre in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well cooked food, and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50 cents for full sized package at all drug stores.

A little book on cause and cure of stomach diseases mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

Appalling Waste of Money and Energy
by European Nations.

From Popular Science Monthly: A whole continent of our globe, twice as large as the European continent, having 8,000,000 square miles and 50,000,000 inhabitants—North America—is divided into three political dominions—Canada, the United States and Mexico. As none of these countries covets the territory of the other, there are on this vast continent only 114,453 soldiers and marines, one solitary man for 700 inhabitants, while in Europe there is one for 103. The American proportion would give 514,286 men for all the European armies. As there are no savage elements in Europe to be restrained by arms, half of the North American contingent ought to be enough to maintain internal order there. Europe needs only 800,000 soldiers at most; all the others are supported in deference to the idolatry for square miles. This additional military force exceeds 3,300,000 men, and costs 4,508,000,000 francs ($901,600,000) a year. And this is the direct loss entailed by the spirit of conquest, and yet it is trifling as compared with the indirect losses. First, there are 3,300,000 men under the flags. If they were not soldiers and were following lucrative occupations and earning only 1,000 francs ($200) a head they might produce $760,000,000. The $900,000,000 absorbed now by military expenditures would bring 5 per cent if invested in agricultural and industrial enterprises. This would make another $45,000,000. The twenty-eight days of the reserves are worth at least $40,000,000. Here, then, is an absolutely palpable sum of $845,000,000. But what a number of colossal losses escape valuation. Capital produces capital. If $1,800,000,000 were saved every year from military expenses and poured into industrial enterprises they would produce benefits beyond our power to estimate.

THOUGHT TO PLEASE THEM.

Chinese Cook's Appropriate Decoration of an Angel Cake.

A woman whose husband was physician for the California state prison recently had in her kitchen one of the convicts from the prison, a Chinaman, serving a short sentence for theft, but whose subsequent good behavior had made for him many friends among the government officials. John was a good cook and more than cleanly, so the doctor's wife hailed him with delight and mourned greatly when the days were hazy and John was not allowed beyond the prison walls. John, when in the world, had heard a good deal about the "Sunday school" life of his fellow-celestial, and since his confinement had thought much on the subject.

The doctor was very proud of John's cooking, and one day invited a few friends in for dinner. John was in his element and prepared an elaborate meal. Among the many delicacies for dessert ordered by the doctor's wife was an angel cake, John's chief culinary success. Great was the consternation and surprise of the hostess and the amusement of the guests when John bobbed into the room carrying a huge, snowy, uncut angel cake, bearing across the top in huge red letters the word "Heaven." John's dinner was a "howling" success.

MILLIONAIRE

Stops a Runaway Horse and Saves a Man and Boy.

A few days ago Claus Spreckles stopped a runaway horse that was hitched to a wagon, in which rode a man and his son. He was in great danger of being knocked down and trampled to death by the animal, but he did not get hurt, and he saved the two people in the wagon from harm. People stop runaway horses. Very often, but it is not every day that a millionaire takes such risks for poor people. Claus Spreckles is a man who has gained many millions of dollars making sugar in California. All this goes to show that men, rich or poor, are, after all, very much alike in times of danger to others, and that the most of them will lend a helping hand. There are very few real cowards in the world.

New Cure for Snake Bite.

Dr. Calmette of the Pasteur Institute at Lille has discovered an anti-venomous serum by means of which the poisoning from snakebites can always be checked and death prevented if the serum be injected within four hours after the person has been bitten.

I was seriously afflicted with a cough for several years, and last year had a more severe cough than ever before. I have used many remedies without receiving much relief, and being recommended to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, by a friend, who, knowing me to be a poor widow, gave it to me. I tried it, and with the most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved me very much and the second bottle has absolutely cured me. I have not had a good health for twenty years. Col. Picquet Is Exonerated. Paris, June 14.—The chamber of indictments today decided that there is no case against Lieut.-Col. Picquet charged with forgery in the Dreyfus case, or against Maître Leblois, his counsel, against whom charges were also made in connection with the case. The judgment of the court thus finally exonerates Picquet, who was released from prison, after being nearly a year in confinement.

ALWAYS A DOUBLE.

For Persons Who Gain Social or Political Prominence.

Washington Special New York Mail and Express: It has always been a notable fact in Washington that whenever a man or woman gained especial prominence in politics, war or society, there appeared on the streets of the capital his or her double. All the presidents have had their doubles; and Cleveland used to be greatly annoyed when told that Lawrence Gardner, who was connected with the Democratic national committee from the district of Columbia, was his exact image. Ex-Congressman Fowler of New Jersey took the greatest delight in being mistaken for President McKinley, and it is said he affected the president's style and dress to heighten the resemblance. One of the female clerks in the treasury department during the Cleveland administration secured many invitations to social entertainments simply because she looked like Mrs. Cleveland, and certain hostesses wanted her presence at their functions to make the unwary believe that Mrs. Cleveland was one of the guests. There have been many facsimiles in human form of the various army and navy heroes of the late war constantly seen about Washington, and their doings have often caused stories to be circulated about the original, which, at times, were embarrassing to the latter. But so far as known, the gripman who looks like Dewey had not traded on his resemblance, but seems content with attending to his work as Dewey does.

Cost of Story.

War and glory have been costly things in France. Between 1792 and 1815 she sacrificed one-half of the 4,500,000 soldiers she sent to fight her battles. War has cost her in this century nearly 6,000,000 lives.

Bad management keeps more people in poor circumstances than any other one cause. To be successful one must look ahead and plan ahead so that when a favorable opportunity presents itself he is ready to take advantage of it. A little forethought will also save much expense and valuable time. A prudent and careful man will keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house, the shiftless fellow will wait until necessity compels it and then ruin his best horse going for a doctor and have a big doctor bill to pay, besides; one pays out 25 cents, the other is out a hundred dollars and then wonders why his neighbor is getting richer while he is getting poorer. For sale by People's Drug Co., Cor. Main and Milwaukee streets.

1777—First form of American flag decreed by congress. The resolution read "that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." The present form is 13 stripes and a star for every state. This was adopted in 1818.

ABOUT LICENSES.

If the council compels the opera house to pay license, it must compel all other amusement enterprises—whether managed by the churches, the Y. M. C. A., secret societies, or private individuals—to do the same. The principle involved is far reaching, and countless enterprises must come under the same ruling. It would appear equally necessary to license milk routes, thereby compelling inspection of the cattle furnishing the milk, for possible disease; to license barber shops; creameries, and, in fact, every other business of a semi-public nature. The aldermen who want the opera house to pay a license, must admit their lack of consistency, if they do not advocate these equally equitable extensions of the license system.

Another French cabinet has resigned in recognition of the sentiment that Premier Dupuy would not punish the army conspirators. If the French people want the army scandal probed they might place the investigation in the hands of Picquart, Zola, and the others who have made so gallant a fight for the cause of liberty and justice.

REBELS' DETERMINED STAND.

Gen. Lawton's Column Fights a Severely Contested Battle.

FIVE DEAD, TWENTY-FIVE HURT.

Defenses of the Zapote River Forces After the Severe Struggle of the War—Otis and Lawton Are Both Well Pleased with the Result.

tion at 1 o'clock, the enemy having stubbornly held their ground since daylight, despite the heavy artillery and naval fire of the Americans.

The afternoon advance in the direction of Bacoar developed into what turned out to be the hardest fight since the outbreak of hostilities with the Filipinos.

As told to Gen. Otis by Gen. Pio del Pilar's secretary, who deserted from the insurgents a few days ago, the bridge across the Zapote river was selected by the rebels as the point at which they would attempt to prevent any further advance of the American forces. It was here that the natives during the rebellion against Spain destroyed an entire Spanish battalion of 800 men, and here they made a most determined stand against our troops, but were not able to hold their position.

Our soldiers went forward with rushes, cheering as they went ahead, under a heavy fire. The morning's reconnaissance had determined accurately the enemy's position, and consequently the American troops were employed to the best advantage.

Early in the afternoon a battalion of the Ninth infantry attempted to re-enforce the two companies of the Twenty-First infantry, who were holding their own against a larger force between the road from Las Pinas to Bacoar and Manila bay. The attempt was rendered fruitless, however, by the tide, which in rising had so flooded the mud flats and swamps that it was impossible for the men of the Ninth to cross them.

The main work was the direct attack on the bridge. Kenley's battery of four mountain guns and two three-inch guns, with company E of the Fourteenth infantry as supports, advanced straight along the road to the bridge. The other companies of the Fourteenth regiment moved forward to the left and right of the road.

The rebels had dug enormous trenches along the Bacoar side of the river, and had burned the planking in the middle of the bridge, to prevent the Americans from charging across and taking their positions.

The Americans pushed steadily forward until they reached the bank of the river. Then Kenley took his mountain guns right up to the approach of the bridge and poured a heavy fire into the trenches; but they were so well constructed that it was impossible to damage them greatly.

Our men were so close to the enemy that they could see their heads above the earthworks. The Americans kept up a tremendous fire, in spite of the galling return, and it seemed as though every man must certainly be hit. A few minutes after the Americans had reached the bridge approach, several of them were wounded, some mortally.

It was not long before the rebels began to grow restive under the hail of bullets, and finally they broke and ran. The Americans then jumped along the bank of the river and, standing upright, directed a terrific fire upon the fugitives.

The Filipinos were compelled to cross either the open road or an open field, and thus presented excellent targets for the regulars, who took full advantage of the opportunity to exercise their marksmanship. Hardly one of the insurgents succeeded in getting away.

In a few minutes all was over. The Americans swarmed across the river, and found many dead and dying Filipinos in the trenches and fields. Probably fifty dead natives were found in the immediate vicinity of the bridge.

The rebels had a second line of trenches half a mile away. Half an hour after the retreat from the first line firing was reopened from this second line. Fresh troops were hurried forward to relieve the tired men who had captured the first line, and a heavy fire was delivered on the enemy, who responded for only a short time, and then fled.

After the fighting was over Gen. Lawton said that it was more like war than anything he had seen since he had been in the Philippines.

OTIS TELLS OF BATTLE.

Washington, June 14.—The following cablegram has been received from Gen. Otis:

"Manila, June 13.—Adjutant General, Washington: Lawton's troops had severe engagement today with enemy in strong intrenchments at crossing Zapote river, near Bacoar, Cavite province; has driven enemy with heavy loss; our casualties some thirty. Insurgents in this southern section not molested until threatened attack in strong force on Manila; now scattered and in retreat; doubtful if they make further stand. OTIS."

GENERAL LUNA IS MURDERED, Filipino Chief Slain at Aguineldo's Headquarters.

Manila, June 14.—Gen. Antonio Luna, the Filipino rebel chief, and his adjutant, Col. Ramon, were murdered last Tuesday by members of Aguineldo's headquarters guard. Confirmation of the previous rumors of Luna's taking off have been received here.

Washington, June 14.—Various opinions are held in official circles as to the effect of Luna's assassination on the situation in the Philippines. The matter was discussed at the cabinet meeting Tuesday, but it cannot be asserted that any official information about the assassination has been received. A dispatch from Mr. Schurman, asserting that Luna opposed peace, however, furnishes a reason for the quarrel that led to the assassination. If Mr. Schurman's statement be correct, the outlook for the surrender of Aguineldo is very good. While the administration officials are not indulging in any hope on that score, they are curious to know definitely the respective views of Aguineldo and his murdered general.

THE HEDGE FENCE DOOMED

Nearly All Were Winter Killed—Move Came Many Years Ago.

Thirty-five or forty years ago, there came a great move by the Southern Wisconsin farmers for live fences. For a few years trials were made of willow and agn's made fortunes selling gray willow slips to farmers. The argument was that the willow would be both fence and fuel. The trial showed that it took two acres of ground to raise 160 rods of fence, and the fences went down.

Then the osage orange came in, and every farmer in the country invested in it, and the osage orange hedge has held its own to some extent for nearly thirty years. Of late years farmers have grown to look upon it as an expensive and troublesome fence, and many have grubbed them out; but it remained for the past severe winter to finish osage as a fence in this section. The osage fence is practically all winter-killed, and it is doubtful if any will ever be planted again.

Clever Young Actor.

The members of the St. Stanislaus Young Men's Society of Elmwood Place gave a successful show at Banner Hall in the above village last evening. A three-act drama and a one-act farce were presented in a most creditable manner before a full house. Edward Brendel, as Major Lookout, is deserving of special mention, as his part could not be improved upon. A neat sum was realized.

The saying is an old one but nevertheless a true one, "the best is always the cheapest." It has been proven true in Bicycles to a very great extent. LABOR MEN HOLD SECOND DAY SESSION

ORGANIZER WEBER'S REPORT INTERESTING.

Says That Women Should Be Paid Wages Equal To Men Or They Should Leave The Store Or Factory—Committees Were Appointed Last Evening.

At 9 o'clock this morning in the Armory, Organizer F. J. Weber called the second day's meeting of the State Federation of Labor to order.

Several new delegates were in attendance and the number fully reached fifty.

Organizer Weber submitted his report which embraced several closely written pages.

It covered general topics of the labor question dealing with the eight hour movement, child and woman labor, injunctions, legislation, United States industrial commissioners and strikers.

Of special interest was the report on child and woman labor, Organizer Weber advocating that no boy should be allowed to do labor in a store or factory until

MARTIN JESKO, OF RACINE.
Secretary and Treasurer.

fifteen years of age and no girl until sixteen years of age, instead fourteen as is now prescribed by law.

In speaking of women, Organizer Weber's report shows that he does not sanction the present method of employment as it deals with wages.

He does not believe that women should be barred from work, but he does advocate that they should be paid wages equal to men or that they should remain at home and perform the duties for which she was brought forth on this earth by her Maker.

"When the wages of women are raised equal to those of men," said Organizer this afternoon, "then the employers will select the men in preference every time. This is one way of solving the cheap labor question of the present day. The number of women that are today employed in Janesville on starvation wages is simply surprising, and during the past two days here I have made observation that enables me to get a thorough insight."

After the reading of the report the meeting adjourned until this afternoon.

The afternoon session was taken up by the different committees who were appointed last evening as follows:

Label and Boycotts—Chas. Teney, H. Staudenraus, F. C. Weiss, Thos. Tullock and William Mason.

Treasurer and Executive Report—Otto Toone, John Dillon, Benjamin Ruehl, H. Moers and A. Baier.

Organizer's Report—H. F. Furey, Geo. Lare, Louis Hansen, John Olebeke and John Qualmann.

Rules and Order—E. E. Clemens, Geo. Sengbush and Otto Toone.

Commission and Constitution—Jacob Hunger, Chas. Nicalous, J. J. Wertz, Frank Kitz and Louis Sandrock.

Resolutions—James Sheehan, O. N. Calef, William Aerne, Paul Huebner and B. Gage.

Report on United States Industrial Commissioners—O. N. Calef, Jacob Hunger and George Sangbush.

Roberts-Clapp.

A very pretty home wedding took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at 452 South High street, the home of the bride.

Rev. W. W. Woodside, pastor of the First M. E. church, spoke the words that united as husband and wife Miss Mary Inez Clapp and O. G. Roberts, both of this city.

In the neighborhood of one hundred of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. The presences were numerous and valuable. The boys of the Janesville Machine company presented the happy couple with a beautiful Turkish couch.

During the evening Messrs. John Collins, Will Cadwalter and J. Gokey, furnished excellent instrumental music. The Janesville Machine company's male quartette also furnished those present with several selections, which were well received. The wedding march was played by Miss Ada Roberts.

The bride and groom are both well and favorably known, and have the best wishes of their friends, who are legion.

WITNESS TELLS HOW BARN WAS FIRED

OFFICER COCHRANE EXPLAINS THE DETAILS.

Says That the Whole Story Was Given to Him By John Arquette Who Alleges to Have Helped Dixon—Defendant's Attorneys Show, Arquette Up In Bad Light.

At 9 o'clock this morning the examination was resumed in the Dillon and Dixon trial by placing Officer Wallace Cochrane on the stand.

Officer Cochrane's testimony proved the most interesting that has been given by any witness.

He told of the confession made to him by John Arquette of this city, which confession and other evidence led to the arrest of Anthony Dixon and Thomas Dillon, charged with arson.

Officer Cochrane stated that Arquette told him all, saying that at the time of the fire he was working for Dixon on his farm four miles from this city.

Arquette informed Cochrane that on the Saturday night of the fire in April last he and Dixon drove to Janesville and after reaching the city drove straight to the fair grounds going over the Fourth avenue bridge. At about 8 o'clock they arrived at the Dillon and Dixon barn and after unlocking it, went in and at once made preparations to fire it.

Arquette says that Dixon and he were there alone and with a six inch candle they placed it on loose straw, then lighted the candle and left.

Arquette says that they then drove away figuring that when the candle reached the straw they would be many miles away.

Frank O. Haselton was the second witness placed on the stand and he merely identified a lock used on the door prior to the fire.

Witnesses examined yesterday for the state were: Floyd Murdoch, Frank Haselton, James McKewan, William Riley, John C. Spencer, Chas. McKewan, Chas. Grampe, Thomas Bontoff, J. S. Doran, Joseph Field and Elmer Tarrant.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon testimony was taken on the part of the defendants.

Thomas Bontoff, a farm hand employed by Anthony Dixon and a witness for the state this morning, was recalled.

Edward Dillon, brother to the defendant, testified as to hauling several loads of hay and straw to the barn at the fair grounds during a few days prior to the fire.

MR. REED AT GRAND TONIGHT

Last Attraction of Present Season and a Good One.

Isadore Rush, who enacts the part of "Henrietta Oliver" in "The Wrong Mr. Wright" at Myers Grand tonight, contributes materially to the effectiveness of the piece by her handsome dress. She is an ideal woman, so far as trigness and neatness is concerned.

In a recent interview she chatted affably about herself and her stage experiences. "I have two weaknesses," said she, "one is for opals, and the other for Japanese gowns. I prefer the Oriental costume for home wear, because it is so comfortable and my wardrobe includes some interesting specimens of Eastern handiwork."

One of them, valuable because of its antiquity, is a kimono of black crepe, embroidered in gold, which is said to be 150 years old. My fondness for opals is a contradiction to an old superstition. While they may have brought ill luck to some people, yet nothing but good fortune has been my lot since my collection has been started. I call them my mascots. Years ago my ambition was to be a comic opera singer, and I was trotted out by my friends for private performances whenever the occasion presented itself. I wanted to go on the stage after seeing Mary Anderson play "Rosalind" in my native town. My first professional appearance was seven years ago in the "Woman Hater." Since that time Miss Rush has played a new part every season. As no two of them were alike, and their ages were everywhere from sweet sixteen to fat forty-five, the demand upon her talents may be understood. Miss Rush has never played with anyone except Mr. Reed, who has coached her from the start. "I have but very little chance to see other plays, concluded Miss Rush, as she prepared to leave the wings. "Playing seasons of forty-two weeks with Mr. Reed does not leave much time to be spent on the other side of the footlights."

out, and was struck twice by pieces of flying plank. Then the storm was gone.

STORM AT VARIOUS OTHER POINTS.

Hudson Suffers Severely, as Does Barron, La Crosse and Rice Lake.

Hudson, Wis., June 14.—The cyclone which passed through St. Croix county Monday night was beyond description. No account is exaggerated. Wherever it passed the buildings are completely destroyed.

At Boardman the farm buildings of Mrs. Kate Heffron are destroyed and Mrs. Heffron was killed. The storm center seemed to strike the farm buildings of Mr. Spencer and Mrs. Hurd. Mrs. Hurd was killed, with a little girl that was stopping with her. A man named Neige from Deer Park, who drove in for the storm to pass, was also killed. Dead horses and stock are to be seen everywhere in the line of the storm.

Barron, Wis., June 14.—This town and surrounding country were visited Monday night by a severe tornado, which did untold damage. The Norwegian church was totally wrecked. The Barron Heading company's mill was partly wrecked and the stock scattered.

La Crosse, Wis., June 14.—One of the most destructive floods that have ever visited this section is raging here. A portion of North La Crosse is under water. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Larson of Onalaska, five miles north of here, were drowned while viewing the debris of a railroad bridge which had been swept away. Nearly every railroad and wagon bridge within ten miles of the city has been washed out. The mills at Bangor, West Salem and Holmen have gone out. A man and boy were drowned in La Crosse river opposite the city. They were in a boat which capsized.

Clear Lake, Wis., June 14.—A cyclone struck this vicinity about 6 o'clock Monday night. Three miles north and west several houses and outbuildings were swept away. Fred Kennet was blown several rods, and when found he was dying, his skull being fractured. Sam Olson's house was destroyed, he himself being killed. His wife was fatally injured and his son's legs were broken. P. L. Taylor's house was blown to atoms. His ribs were broken and he was internally injured. J. C. Walsworth's house and barn were swept away.

GOV. SCOFIELD'S APPEAL.

Wisconsin's Executive Asks His People to Aid the Sufferers.

Madison, Wis., June 14.—Gov. Scofield has issued the following proclamation:

"To the People of Wisconsin: A terrible calamity has overtaken the people of New Richmond, in St. Croix county. Practically all of the business portion of the city and more than half of the residence portion has been wiped out by a cyclone. It is represented that 100 people are dead and as many more are seriously injured. Assistance is greatly needed.

"The merchants have no stock left, and food and shelter for the injured is the first necessity. I appeal to the generous spirit of the people of Wisconsin to meet promptly the demands thus made upon their sympathy. Already surgeons have been sent to assist the local physicians, and help to bury the dead will be supplied; but in every city in the state a relief committee should be organized.

"All the supplies of money collected should be sent as promptly as possible to Major M. R. Doyon at New Richmond, whom I have appointed to take charge of receiving and distributing the relief until such time as the relief committees are able to do it.

"EDWARD SCOFIELD, Governor of Wisconsin."

Says Nearly 150 Are Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 14.—The Times says that there are well up to 150 dead in and about New Richmond. Of these only about 90 in New Richmond will be recognized, for the reason that the fire has charred their bodies. Relief trains have been sent from Minneapolis, and the Minneapolis board of trade has requested the New Richmond officials to draw on it for $2,000. This is simply a beginning of the relief fund. The millers have said they would give a lot of flour.

Heavy Storm at Winona.

Winona, Minn., June 14.—A storm broke over this city at 5 o'clock Tuesday night and did much damage, estimated at about $200,000. The damage was done mainly by overflowing creeks, rivulets and rivers, and was done most largely to railroad property. The rain came in torrents, and fell for more than four hours.

Eight Injured in a Wreck.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 14.—The Vincennes express on the Indianapolis and Vincennes division of the Pennsylvania road was in head-end collision with a freight train at Gosport, thirty-five miles southwest of this city, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Nine people were injured, none fatally.

STORM'S WORK IN NEBRASKA

Town of Herman, in Washington County, Destroyed.

TWELVE DEAD BODIES SEEN.

According to Reports, Not a Building of Any Consequence Is Left Standing—Relief Trains Sent to the Scene at Once—Names of the Dead.

Omaha, Neb., June 14.—The town of Herman, in Washington county, forty miles north of Omaha, was totally wrecked by a tornado Tuesday evening. The news was received by telephone. According to the report not a building of any consequence was left standing. Herman had a population of about 600; it is on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railway. A train on this road passed through Herman south bound an hour after the storm. The conductor says the loss of life was terrible, and he counted twelve dead bodies within sight of the railroad track. He could not give an estimate of the number of casualties, which must have been large.

Coming on down to Blair, he gave the alarm, and a relief train was soon made up. Volunteers were taken up to Herman, including all the physicians of Blair, and they are now doing all they can for the wounded. The wires are all down, and further details cannot be given until the relief train returns to Blair.

Only Two Houses Left.

The latest advices received state that every building in the town is destroyed except the public school and a small dwelling, both of which are on the outskirts. The force of the wind was terrific, as scarce one piece of any of the many structures destroyed was left intact. The scene in the streets of the once thriving and beautiful little town is one of destruction. Wrecked buildings and broken furniture, scarce recognizable in its dilapidated condition, are strewn all around, while dead bodies lie in many places, the corpses badly disfigured and some of them hardly recognizable. The moans of the injured mingle with the calls of the rescuers as they pursue their humanitarian task in the darkness by the flickering gleams of lanterns.

Relief from Blair.

The relief train from Blair arrived about an hour after the storm, and the work of picking up the wounded was begun. Willing hands did what they could to help the injured, and in the course of an hour the train pulled out for Blair with ninety-five in jured on board. They were taken to Blair, as there is absolutely no place left in Herman at which treatment can be administered.

All the citizens of Blair have thrown open their houses to the wounded, and the unfortunates are being cared for by competent surgeons. Many of the injured will die, but some of them received but slight injuries. It is impossible, owing to the confusion, to ascertain the number of dead, but twelve are known to have been killed, and the list will run very much higher.

Supt. Jaynes of the Omaha road was at Tekamah when he heard of the disaster, and left at once for Herman on a handcar, taking two physicians along with him, to assist in aiding the injured.

The names of the dead, so far as obtainable, are:

DAVIS, child of S. M.
HOPKINS, ANDERSON.
HOPKINS, MRS. ANDERSON.
HOPKINS, MISS.
RICHARDS, W. S., postmaster.
Following are some of the injured:
Hives, L. J., of Blair; dangerous internal injuries.
Anderson, Mrs. W. A., head bruised, arm broken; will die.
Clausen, Louis, Missouri Valley, Iowa; unconscious; will die; head mashed.

THE DISTINGUISHED VISITOR usually arrives on American shores with a preconceived notion of what our liquors are like, but after sampling

Old Underfoot Rye

once or twice he begins to speak of it as the finest whiskey that ever passed his lips. It is put up in characteristic square bottles and may be found all over North America. By being stored for years in heavily charred oaken barrels its mellowness and flavor is greatly enriched. If there is merit in fine old whiskeys, certainly Old Underfoot has it.

How Mrs. Pinkham HELPED MRS. GOODEN.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 12,733]

"I am very grateful to you for your kindness and the interest you have taken in me, and truly believe your medicines and advice are worth more to a woman than all the doctors in the world. For years I had female troubles and did nothing for them. Of course I became no better and finally broke down entirely. My troubles began with inflammation and hemorrhages from the kidneys, then inflammation, congestion and falling of the womb and inflammation of ovaries.

"I underwent local treatment every day for some time; then after nearly two months the doctor gave me permission to go back to work. I went back, but in less than a week was compelled to give up and go to bed. On breaking down the second time, I decided to let doctors and their medicine alone and try your remedies. Before the first bottle was gone I felt the effects of it. Three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of her Sanative Wash did me more good than all the doctors' treatments and medicine.

"The first remark that greets me now is 'How much better you look!' and you may be sure I never hesitate to tell the cause of my health."—MRS. E. J. GOODEN, ACKLEY, IA.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31. I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy or after childbirth. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it. MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

WINE OF CARDUI

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it? They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

IN THE LIBRARY.

The fire is dim, the light is low,
And silent in my easy chair
I sit and dream, and fancies flow
About me in the darkling air.

The walls with books are covered well;
Quite to the ceiling high they rise,
And in the darkness I can tell
Where each beloved volume lies.

But now they seem to live and move,
And faces from their bindings stare,
And all the authors that I love
And their creations fill the air.

They never speak; their eager eyes
Look for companions never found,
As each into the darkness dies
In turn and makes no sound.

And groups float by, but never gaze
Upon each other; all intent
On unknown errands go they way,
Or stand in mute bewilderment.

What are ye—real or feigned things?
And will ye live some grander life,
When we who breathe have lost our wings
And fallen, silent, in the strife?

And who are greatest—those who found
A city grand, a palace high
Or those who till the spirit ground
Of fancy that can never die?

For men may live and do and dare,
Yet fade away, by all forgot,
But these creations, foul and fair,
Live on and perish not.

—From Watson's "Songs of Flying Hours."

THE VOLUNTEER.

A Sketch of the Cuban War.

With the intensity of a tropical day the sun seemed to expend its entire force of furnace heat upon the unsheltered spot in front of Santiago, where lay a grievously wounded American soldier boy. The wide, tortured eyes of the youth stared fearfully upward to the blazing zenith, just the fowl birds watching his sufferings with calculating vision and waiting for their human feast which seemed sure to come. He thought with sickening brain of his northern home—the green hills, the running streams, the dear mother. Tears welled up into his aching orbs, and the hot drops crept down his cheeks. He did not try to wipe them away. He could not. A musket bullet had struck him in the thigh, another in the right arm and another in the left. He was helpless. But what matter? The dead could not see, and the mother would probably never know how he had nobly fought even to the gates of death. At his feet lay the dead body of a Cuban, black and hairy, slain by the bullet of a Spanish sharpshooter. For these Cubans he was dying, for them he had come to help free the island from the tyranny of Spanish rule.

Then he recalled the events of that day at San Juan hill. The American troops had been on their feet since day-break. There was a scanty breakfast, and as the men ate it there were indications of the coming clash of arms. The files on the march to the firing line were closed up. Every sense was alive. The bugle sounded, and then came the order to advance. The tempest of musketry and shrapnel through which they moved forward drove like a storm of steel into the faces of the men, but nothing could resist the imperious advance, and the first line of the enemy was swept away.

The battle grew. Here and there a soldier went down, but the column stood firm. The officers marched close by the men. Sometimes through the smoke they caught a glimpse of the colonel leading on in front.

The din increased. The earth seemed reeling underfoot. Shells burst with horrid shriek and flung out quick death. Still the men pushed on. An officer picked up the gun of a man who had fallen and spoke a cheery word.

The Spanish artillery and the far-reaching Mousers swept within a certain limit every inch of ground, but with a firm and rapid step that unflinching column moved forward.

Louder grew the tumult, and thicker came the angry messengers. A sharp cry of pain, and one of the men is helped to the rear. The bullets came hotter and faster from the Spanish in the trenches and from the blockhouses. More comrades stretched out quietly with the death mark on their faces. There was no time for words—only a mad swelling of the heart and a throbbing of the brain. A deadly thirst for blood dried up all other feeling as another man was lifted back.

Suddenly a cool voice they had heard before, rang out an order: "Come on, boys! Charge!" And the thin line rushed through the smoke and advanced up the hill. With a cheer they answered the fiery blast that swept into their faces with sudden fury. The air seemed instant with leaden life, and volley after volley peeled forth from the deadly rifles.

For one awful moment the men faltered! Groans of agony and hoarse commands mingled, and all around American soldiers lay down to die. But the check was only momentary, and on into the jaws of death the column went. Every man leaned forward as though breathing a heavy wind. From right, left and front they felt the pounding of the enemy's guns, and shrapnel swept through the ranks like hail.

On the summit of the hill the blockhouse swarmed with the foe, dimly seen through puffing lines of smoke from our guns. The Spanish were entrenched—Americans in the open. But never mind! Forward! And soon the foreign foe was driven back and the stronghold captured.

Half way down the slope, as the victors pursued the flying enemy, a withering blast of Mouser bullets swept across the open ground, and the boy who now lay dying in the open space in the tall grass fell forward with a ball in his thigh. A comrade ran to his assistance, and he made his way painfully to the rear, but as he passed along another Spanish bullet struck him in the right arm, and presently he was wounded in the left. Then his day of battle was done, and the black hours of unconsciousness followed.

When reason returned the sounds of battle had ceased, and he wondered where his comrades were. Were they all dead? Would they search for him? He was alive, but he knew that death would come in a few short hours. How hot the sun beat down! How still everything seemed to him—no whizzing of bullets in the air, nor shriek of screaming shell, nor the yell of charging troops—nothing but the silence of an ocean of grass. There was the dead Cuban lying at his feet—a ghastly bunch of mortality. How big and black he was! His eyes were staring at him like balls of glass! What were they staring at him for? The night was coming on apace—would he have to lie in the tall grass until the morrow? He could not tell. And then the dark cloud again settled over his senses and it was hours before the light came into his soul.

Death's door is a mirror and the dying have good memories. When consciousness returned the boy's mind went back to his home. He wondered if all was well on the old farm, where he and his mother and brother had lived in peace until the war with Spain called him to the front. He had a letter in his pocket from home—he would read it again. But, alas! he could not reach his pocket—both arms were disabled and in the inky darkness he could not see.

How long since had he left home? Three months! Only three months! And now he lay dying in his young manhood. He remembered the morning that he left his home. The birds were singing, and nature was at her best. The fields were clothed in green and the brook softly murmured over the pebbles at the bottom. He had donned his new uniform, and he felt a little sharp pang as he left his home. He remembered it all very well.

"Goodby, Bill," he had said to his brother. "Take good care of another." "Look out for Spanish bullets and bring back a machete," said Bill. "I'm off, mother."

"Goodby, my son. Be brave and serve your country like a man." Then she embraced and kissed him, and the parting was over.

The old house cat rubbed against him and purred as if to bid him goodspeed. His faithful dog followed him down the lane, but with stern words his master drove him back. At the edge of the town a blue-eyed, fair haired girl stood at the gate. "Are you really going to fight the Spanish, John?"

"Yes, Helen, and I have come to say goodby." There was then a hasty kiss, a warm pressure of hands, and thus he left home.

Everything was so hushed and dark now. Was the whole world dead? Why was he lying helpless here? How had it happened? Then he remembered—the furious charge across the open field, up the hill and over the crest in the face of a rain of Spanish bullets. The air hummed and whistled. From the trenches and blockhouses the Mousers spit at them. Then the blow came to him. It was a terrible shock. It seemed to lift him from his feet and double him up and pitch him forward; then the painful journey to the rear, two more bullet wounds, and then unconsciousness.

Now he was dying in the darkness. How strange it all was! That dead Cuban—how black he looked, and how his eyes glared! There was a tiny hole in his forehead where life had leaped through. Some one was crying for water. Was it himself? He could not tell. The night was getting cold, and the heavy dew made the tall grass soggy. There were no stars to watch him. Would nobody help him? Hark! That was his dog howling, and how loud it was!

How weak and dizzy he felt. "Goodby, Bill." He could not see. Everything was growing dim.

"Farewell, mother! Helen!" And the deep, dank grass waved a weeping requiem to another brave young soul. —Detroit Free Press.

Gold in Clay.

It has been discovered that the clay of which our common red bricks are made contains gold, about 25 cents' worth to every ton of bricks. An ingenious person has calculated that, as there are at least 5,000,000 tons of bricks in London, there must be at least $1,250,000 worth of the precious metal locked up in the walls of that metropolis alone.

Preventive of Seasickness.

A traveler who founds his plan for preventing seasickness on what he has observed concerning the motions of a vessel—namely, that it has a rising and falling motion, a longitudinal oscillatory motion about its center of gravity and a rolling transverse motion, says: "The entrance to the stomach is on the left side of the body, the oesophagus end, and the exit is on the right side, the pyloric orifice, and my experiment consisted in utilizing the longitudinal motions so as to keep the food in the stomach and utilizing the rolling motions so as to assist the natural operations of the oesophagus in propelling the food toward the pyloric orifice. This I effected by selecting a couch arranged in a line with the keel; lying with my head toward the engine room and lying upon my left side." The experiment, he adds, was entirely successful, and he has always adopted it in rough seas, when a suitable berth could be obtained.

Little Lapses at Table.

Offtimes one wishes that the rules of table etiquette might be daily rehearsed. It seems absurd, and yet observations teach us how necessary that the do's and don'ts be enforced and re-enforced.

Do not use a spoon or a knife when a fork will do.

Do not elevate fruit or anything else to the mouth with a knife.

Do not section off a slice of bread with your knife.

Do not butter an entire slice at one time.

Do not fill a soup spoon toward you.

Do not present the tip of a spoon to your mouth.

Do not beat a tattoo between courses.

Do not mark out designs on the tablecloth with the silver.

Do not eat rapidly.

These rules seem trite and unnecessary, but constant lapses show their importance, says Table Talk.

Fashion's Echoes.

A cunning and effective French touch is given to evening dresses in the form of a large chon and ends of black tulle on the left side of the corsage, fastened with a knot and chains of turquoises or diamonds. This on a light gown is a daring finish.

Gray gowns are popular for evening wear. A costume in silver dotted tulle, trimmed with lace, furnishes an example.

There is now automobile gray as well as automobile red.

Foulards in black and white, lavender, mauve and purple are in favor and make dressy gowns. To be without a foulard is to stand confessed "a back number."

One of the strong points of millinery at present is the lavish use of tulle, laces and transparent fabrics.

Pretty clasp pins for the coiffure consist of curved bars of shell set with brilliants.

A Family Carriage

That combines beauty and comfort with convenience, is one of our well made and high grade

Canopy Top Surreys...

It is unexcelled for workmanship, durability and comfort, and will give more satisfaction for general family use than any other carriage made. We have just a few left and are closing them out at nearly cost—a price in which there is very little for us, but a whole lot for you.

This is an opportunity to buy a strictly high grade Surrey at the same price that others are asking you for cheaper work. YOU KNOW OUR GOODS.

"I can't explode, it won't go wrong;"
"Now can you wonder at my song?"
"For years we've waited for this day,"
"When this stove's sold, it's sold to stay."

Insurance Gasoline Stoves

are becoming a household necessity in Janesville. They don't come back to the hardware store for an annual cleaning once a year; they don't require it.

Novelty Blue Flame Oil Stoves

McNAMARA, ARMORY BLOCK.

We're not resting on the laurels already gained by our bread—our methods, etc. We're after new laurels; we're winning them too, with this "Eureka Quality" Bread. Good as experience, the most approved methods, and good material can make it, and far better than what is called "home made" bread in many cases. Ask your grocer or stop the wagon.
